His Family Objected to Her Presence During Mr. Foulard's Last Illness, but She Managed to Secure an Audience in the Family Home at Arcadia - Attended the Funeral Services-Proposes to Assert Her Alleged Rights.

Unless the will of the late J. Gaston Soulard comes up to the expectations of one who claims to be his common law wife, it is extremely probable that it will be contested. The voman in question is known to some of her acquaintances as Marion Ries, and to others as."Mrs. Soulard." and to others still as Wilson. she has lived for nearly two years in a house owned by J. Gaston Soulard, at No. 5969 Reber place, and the property is now held by her under a quit claim deed from J. Gaston Soulard, though subject to a eed of trust for a little less than half its

J. Gaston Soulard, it is claimed formed the attachment which is now proving so distressing to his family, several years ago.
For three years at least he has manifested a very marked preference for the society of Marion Ries, and, it is claimed, installed her in a handsome home, with comfortable furnishings and adequate domestic help, at 969 Reber place. He opened an account at the neighboring grocery house of C. F. Sievers, No. 2261 King's highway boulevard. and ordered liberally of the best table and buffet supplies that the house afforded. To ose who had business with him, Mr. Soulard at first passed himself off as "Dr. Wilson," but this is said to have been done rather in a esting spirit than as a means of concealing his identity, for in a month or two after tak on of the premises he resumed his rightful name, even with those who had at first known him as Dr. Wilson. He made at the Reber place house, and the few who were privileged to et him there also met the wo he always introduced her to such visitors as "my wife" or "my fran." That the couple were on the best possible terms is attested by a number of friends who saw them to-put Gaston Soulard's relatives were at no time inclined to look favorably upon this arrangement: though as long as he retained health and the full use of his faculties, nothing was to be done. Not even could there be any interference when he made over to Miss Ries the valuable property above referred to, for he was long since of age, and his right to dispose of his patrimony as he saw fit could not be questioned, his sanity not being in the slightest degree the subject of 1892, when Soulard and Marion Ries occupled the house he had just then purchased, and lived there until late last fall.

There his illness assumed a serious phase and ne was isolated from visitors and from all annoyances growing out of business or personal matters. Miss Ries, here in St. Louis, was not advised of his condition, and she stated last night that she wrote to him regularly, and when her needs grew press-ing, asked for money to meet household bills. She received neither remittances nor replies, and finally decided to visit air. Soulard.

ling, asked for money to meet household bills. She received neither remittances nor replies, and finally decided to visit Mr. Soulard.

Arrived at Arcadia, she sought admission to the house of Mr. Soulard's mother, but it was refused her. By means which will be mentioned hereafter she finally gained admission to the house, and came to an understanding with Mr. Soulard. Thereafter she paid several visits to Ironton and Arcadia, with more or less unusual results. The last visit was paid about ten days ago, during which she had an interview with Mr. Soulard in the presence of his mother and sister and Henry Kortjohn, aftorney for Mr. Soulard and of the Soulard estate. She claims that an offer was made her in settlement of whatever claims she might then have upon Mr. Soulard, without reference to the outcome of his illness, which was known to be very serious. But she declares that she neither rejected nor accepted the proposal and that she has not yet decided the matter.

On her return home she waited in vain for further tidings from Mr. Soulard, but heard nothing. News of his death, she says, was wired her by a friend in Ironton, but nothing came from the family. Yesterday she called a carriage and attended the funeral mass at St. Xavier's and also followed behind the family carriages to Calvary Cemetery, but she attempted nothing further than any casual acquaintance might have done with propriety. She was aware that she would not be permitted to participate as one of the family, and did not attempt to secure such recognition. She told her story in broken instellments, but gave sufficient of each chapter to let it be known that she considered Soulard to have been deprived of the exercise of his volition, and she of her legal and social rights as his iswill consort. She did not say she was his wife, but she declared over and over again that she had frequently been acknowledged by him, before his servants and his ricends, as his wife, and stated and reiterated her purpose to stand squarely on her rights under that showing. She reviewed her repeated attempts to gain access to his bedside, and circumstances surrounding the two successful attempts. On the first occasion, being denied admission further than the porch, she had called to Mr. Soulard by the name "Gaston" and had brought him, weak and tottering, to the door, where he commanded his mother and sister to stand back and grant her admission to his bedside. On that occasion, she says, he assured her he had written to her every day, and had even made her remittances, and that he had not had a single missive from her in return. She stated to the reporter that she fully believed him and she asserted that she knew just who had withheld his letters to her ask to him. She declares that he would return to her, and if not, he would see that she was provided for as his wife. The second visit during which "Mrs. Soulard" gained admission to the house was made about teo or eleven days ago, On that occasion, she states, the persistence of herefusal to leave Arcadia without seeing him

The second visit during which "Mrs. Sou's lard" gained admission to the house was made about teo or sleven days ago. On that occasion, she states, the persistence of her refusal to leave Areadia without seeing him induced the family of her lover to summon Attorney Henry Kortjohn by telegraph from the city, and there, at the bedside of the dying man the situation was talked over more or less amicably. "They tried to get me to say whether or not a marriage ceremoney had been performed between us," she said, "and I replied that it did not make any difference whether it had or not. I asked Mr. Kortjohn whether it had or not. I asked Mr. Kortjohn whether it had or not. I asked Mr. Kortjohn whether he had ever heard of a common law marriage. He asked me whether I would be satisfied with the discharge of the inoumbrance on this property, and I gave him no satisfaction as to that, either, although I believe he thought the matter settled that way. For, on the way back here on the train he spoke to me and told me how well I ought to be satisfied with the arrangement, and how much better he had done for me than I could have done for myself. He declared that Mr. Gaston was not going to live, and that I did not care for him anyway. That was what made me mad. If those people had treated me with any consideration, I might have been willing to concede something, but now I'm going to have all that belongs to me. Just wait till that will is filed, and you'll see what I'll do."

Mrs. Soulard declared her intention to call upon an attorney to day, and not to wait until the administration papers were filled. She dealt profusely in personalities concerning Gaston Soulard's family, and see med to think she knew exactly whom to blame for their separation. Even considering her interest a repetition of her allegations would not be justified. She said that in his lucid intervisis Mr. Soulard faved about her and called piteously for his "Trinkey." She also deciared that she has in her possession

WHAT SOULARD GAVE HER. "What can I do with this place away out here in the country?" she said. "I can't live on this. I suppose they think I have been living on it while Gaston has been sick, but they'll know better when they get the bills. Did they think I was going to sit here and starve and freeze? Why I was left here without a pound of coal for ten cays during the coldest weather, and all the while I was writing to Gaston to send me a little money, which he told me when saw him he had tried to do—but neither bis check or letter were ever allowed to leave the house. This house isn't enough—I want more than that, or I'll know the reason why. If the worst comes I know what I can do with this property—they haven't anything to say about this—thank God. But this is not all I want—nor all I'm going to have."

with this property—they haven tanything to say about this—thank God. But this is not all I want—nor all I'm going to have."

The property in question was purchased by J. Soulard Gaston from Thomas Flannery and wife on April 6, 1894, the consideration named in the deed of transfer being $6, 250. On April 21, 1892, Soulard executed a deed of trust on the same property to Thomas Flannery and wife to secure a payment of $3,000, payable in five years, and ten interest notes of $50 each, representing the interest notes of $50 each, representing the interest notes of $50 each, representing the interest addition, and in city block 4070. It is assessed at $18 per front foot, and the house is assessed at $2,000, the total valuation for itaxation being $2,900. On May 27, 1898, J. Gaston Soulard executed to Marton Ries a quit claim deed to the same property, subject to the deed of trust to Thomas Flannery and wife, for a consideration of $1. In

This statement, by the way, was made before the foregoing facts were procured from the office of the Recorder of Deeds. Of Marion Ries' or "Mrs. Soulard's" legal possession of the property, as far as any act of Gaston Soulard's could put her in possession, there can be no reason for doubt. It has been stated by members of the Soulard family that J. Gaston Soulard has made away with nearly all of his fortune of $50,000, which he inherited from his father three years ago. Numerous mortgages and deeds of trust, made by him, have been filed in the Recorder's office within he last few weeks.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 8.-3 p. m .- The Coughlin jury is still out. The general belief is they will disagree. Several ballots have been taken. The rumor is the jury stands 9 for conviction and 3 for acquittal.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 8.-An eager, curious throng crowded Judge Tuthill's court-room and rushed through the corridors without the door to-day, anxious witnesses to the closing scenes of the famous trial of Detective Daniel Coughlin for the murder of Within the railing of the courtroom were grouped the prominent figures in the great case, all nervously anxious. Kickham Scanian found a wonderful fascination in the wall directly over the heads of the jurors. Judge Wing and Mr. Donahoe kept their eye fixed closely on Judge Tuthill. The lawy ra for the defense had no opinion to express concerning the probable verdict, though their manner plainly indicated that they expected but one result, and relied confidently on that result being in favor of their dispt.

THE PRISONEL'S WIPE.

Beyond the table at which the prisoner sat shielded from the curious gase of the spectators, sat a little group where evidences of anxiety were more apparent than elsewhere in the court roon. Eagerly leaning forward in her chair, list sing to the Judge's words with a punful intentness, sat the sweet-faced sad-eyed little woman who throughout the weary weeks of the tedious trial has daily visited the court-room—the prisoner's wife. Now and then she turned her gaze anxiously upon her husband, and then turning again towards the court she resumed her attitude of intent attention. With Mrs. Coughlin were her two children, the little girl, Annie, and the fair-haired little boy, Parnell. Before toe opening of court the children had set on their father's knee, stroking his face and prattling of childlesh doings. But now they sat quietly and awe-struck, their mother's anxiety and the solemnity of the scene chilling them into silence. silence.

Back of Mrs. Coughlia's chair, his gray hair mingling with the brown curis of the little girl who sat on his lap, the axed father of the prisoner listened to the delivery of the charge. He, too, had been a constant attendant at the trial and had aged visibly during the progress of the case.

"The officers of the court will come forward and take charge of the jury," said Judge Tuthill, and the four ballins raised

The general feeling among those who witnessed the close of the trial seemed to be that the jury would disagree. though some contended that Couphin would get as high as twenty years. Nobody seemed to think he would hang, and very few that he would be sent up for life.

THE CRIME AND THE EVIDENCE. The Coughlin trial has been one of the most noteworthy in the criminal annals of the noteworthy in the criminal annals of the country. Like the former Cronin trial it has been replete with sensations, and of remark able duration. Daniel Coughlin, an excity detective, was charged with complicity in the murder of Dr. P. H. Cronin, a prominent Irish physician. Cronin was well known in one faction of the Clan-na-Gael, and it was to members of an opposing faction that his murder was charged. At the former trial Coughlin, Martin Burke and Patrick Sullivan were convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. The two latter died in prison and the present defendant secured a new trial. At the former trial John Kunze was also convieted of complicity in the crime. He got a sentence of three years' imprisonment, but was pardoned before the expiration of his term.

Dr. Cronin disappeared on the evening of May 4, 1889. After a protracted search his body mutilated and decomposed was found in a catch-basin in the northern part of the city. In the same section of the city stands the little Carlson cottage, where the theory of the prosecution places the murder.

In the present trial, after five weeks' work, the jury was accepted on Dec. 5 last. Before the jury was completed several sensations were sprung in the shape of charges against jurymen, and three men who had been accepted were excused from service. On Dec. 11 the case was opened with the following jury:

qa. May 12, 1820, near the Carlson cettage. The debase, however, introduced testimony to shew that on the day in question Mrs. Herton was saidy intoriented. A new and sensational witness was introduced by the State in the person of Frank Bardeen, an electrical engineer. In 1839 he was employed at the Edgewater electric light plant, past which the wagon bearing the remains of Dr. Cronin was assumed, by the prosecution, to have gone. Bardeen said that about 2 o'clock on the morning of May 5 he heard a wagon passing. He turned on an electric search light which was fixed above the door and in the giare he saw, he said, a wagon in which there was a large chest or trunk. Behind the wagon walked two men, he claimed, one of whom he identified as Coughlin. Bardeen's testimony was savagely attacked by the defense. It was shown that no train ran at the hour he said he left Edgewater the morning after he saw the wagon, and evidence was introduced to show that no moon was visible on the night in question, although he swore positively moonlight. Much medical testimony was introduced by the defense to prove that Dr. Cronin's death might have resulted from disease and not from the wounds found on his body, but its principal effort was directed toward establishing an allbi. Three with nesses swore to having seen Coughlin during the evening when he was supposed to nave toward establishing an allbi. Three witnesses swore to having seen coughlin during the evening when he was supposed to have been engaged in the killing, and their testimony was unshaken. Several days were consumed by the State in rebuttal evidence, and lengthy speeches were made by counsel.
Through the long trial the most intense interest has been manifested, and the courtroom has daily been thronged by spectators.
The supreme hope of the Cronin Committee, as it is called, the friends of the murdered doctor who have assisted the prosecution in procuring evidence, was that at this trial something would develop to fully reveal the identity of the men who were the real conspirators in the plot of assassination
—the men who laid the plans, and whose

FOLEY IDENTIFIED

Said to Be One of the Carroll Masked Robbers.

John Carroll of 1626 North Broadway called at the Fourth District Police Station, at Tenth and North Market streets, this morn ing and positively identified a suspect who calls himself John Foley, as one his saloon last night and robbed him and his friends of $192 and two gold watches in true Western style. To Michael McGill, alias 'Midget,' a young man who witnessed the this morning with Carroli, is due Foley's capture.

McGill was sitting behind the stove in Carroll & Harrington's saloon, on the southeast corner of Broadway and Mound street, last night when the three daring thieves entered, and so had a good opportunity to see them without being seen. As soon as they had departed with their booty he stepped out the back way and around to the Fourth District Station and told the Sergeant in charge that he thought he could identity of the robbers as he had seen him hangabout Tom Allen's saloon

He claimed that he did not have a cent of that he did not have a cent of money about him, but on best ing searched the police found a $10 bil and a $5 nill in his inside pocket. This made the m suspect they had the right man, and when Carroli identified him this morning they were more certain of the fact. Early this morning Capt. Kiely set special Officers Cavan and Sullivant to work on the case and they with some of Chief D-smond's men, the Captain thinks, will have little difficulty in locating the other two robbers by finding out who Foley is and who his associates are. Capt. Kelly does not believe the prisoner's real name is Foley. "Foley" says he is a stranger in the city, having only arrived here three days ago from Wisconsin. He is a syoung man, apparently about 20, has short hair and a smooth face, which this morning wore an expression of supreme disgust. When seen he surlly refused to discuss his case, except to say that he "never was in the saloon at all."

The injured man was sent to the City Hospital in the belief that his wound was mortal, and Ashbrook was sent to the Four Courts. At first Ashbrook gave the name of Ashley, but refused to contradict or notice in any way the statements of the Millers or any of the witnesses.

This morning Sam Miller was found to be doing nicely, and Dr. Heine Marks was almost ready to pronounce him out of danger. He gave the basis of the foregoing account for publication in presence of his father and a third brother, who had, not, however, been witnesses to the encounter. This morning the father found the dirk-knife with which the cutting was done in the alley in the rear of the Hotel Rozier. It has a heavy blade about three and one-half inches in length and a rough bone handle, and comes within the category of "weapons," the carrying of which concealed about the person is a misdement.

Arthur Ashbrook belongs to a well known at Louis family, but has not been living here of late. He admits that he has no trade or occupation except "following the races." I he has been stopping with his brother, Walter Ashbrook, a bar-tender and well-known man about town, at No. 1826 Olive street. He states, and his brother corroborates his story, that he spent the evening in his brother's rooms, and that about 12 o'clock he left there and came down on the street to get the fresh air. As to the battle, he states that he was standing on the corner of Thirteenth and Olive streets when three unknown men came a long and one of them knocked his hat off. He retalisted, and a scume followed, at the end of which his assailant picked up his (Ashbrook's) hat. The latter remonstrated, he says, when the fight was renewed in earnest, and being hard pressed, he used his knife.

Ashbrook shows a severe wound under the chin, the ordinary souvenir of a stiff upper cut He says he received this just before he did the cutting, while the Millers insist that he so will be a highly in the counter in the Linguit & Myers alier. The police say that Ashbrook is a tough citissa, whose principal income is derived from the use of 'crooked' dice in crap games.

Sam Miller fully identified Ashbrook as the man who cut him and two others in Buebler's saloon, 448 Easton aucenue near his own, last night before he started down town, and he is convinced t believes that the highwayman found this out.

THEO. COOK ARRETED.

Some hours after Ashbrook's arrest Theo. Cook, a bar-tender and pool-room habites, entered the Central police station and inquired for Ashbrook under the name of "Arthur Scott," and also asked about Harry Lashall, who had been arrested for the Steinweinder robbery on Sixth street, his actions excited suspicion and he was locked up. Later sergt, Colling identified Cook as one of the two men he had seen in Ashbrook's company at Thirteenth and Olive streets a short time beings the as-

8 HILLMON ALIVE?

The Point Upon Which an $80,000 Insurance Claim Will Turn.

SHOE MORE THE KARSAS MYSTERY COMES UP FOR SOLUTION.

Suit to Amend the Charters of the Innce Companies That Have Befused to Pay Her Claims-A Strange Story.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 8.—The famous Hill-non insurance case, which has already filled many columns of newspaper space, was set for hearing before State Superintendent of Insurance Snyder this morning. The case new comes up on charges filed by Saille E. Hilmon against the Mutual Life Insurance Co., the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. and the New York Life Insurance Co. Co. and the New York Life Insurance Co. Co. and the New York Life insurance Co., charging fraud, oppression, criminality and unfair dealing. It is alleged in the com-plaint that in 1878 the New York Life Insur-ance Co. issued to the husband of the complainant, John W. Hillmon, two policies for 55,000 each, payable to the complainant, and the Mutual Life Insurance Co. Issued a similar policy for $5,000 to the same person the same year, and that the year following the Connecticut, Mutual Life Insurance Co. issued a similar policy to the same person for $5,000.

THE ALLEGATIONS OF FRAUD.

The plaintiff recites the story of the alleged billing of John W. Hillmon in Barber County, Kan., on March 17, 1878, and charges that the defendants entered into a conspiracy to defraud her out of insurance money due her by mutilating the body of her husband so as to make identification difficult.

She alleges that upon the arrival of the body at Lawrence, her home, it was selzed by the representatives of the companies and taken to the Coroner's office in Douglas County, where one J. H. Stuart, a physician of the company, clandestinely cut from the arm of her dead husband a piece of flesh containing two vaccination marks by which those who knew him well could have positively identified him. She also attacks the validity of the Coroner's inquest which followed, alleging that no report of the proceedings appears on the records of Douglas County.

Sing further alleges that John H. Brown, the only person present at the time of the alleged filling of Hillimon, was induced, after testifying to the facts, to sign a statement to the effect that the man killed was not Hillimon, but one Berkely or Burgess. The defendants, the plaintiff says, started a report that Brown was to be arrested for the murder of Hillmon. This frightened Brown and he went to his home in Wyandotte County to consult his father. It was decided that legal navice was necessary, and w. J. Buchan of Kansas City, Kan., was employed.

CHARGES AGAINST BUCHAN.

CHARGES AGAINST BUCHAN.

Buchan, the plaintiff alleges, afterward entered into a conspiracy with the defendants, and accepted employment at their hands for the purpose of procuring from Brown the statement alluded to. After obtaining the statement alluded to. After obtaining the statement, it is alleged, Buchan told Brown that he would not be prosecuted by the defendants. It is further alleged that Buchan showed the plaintiff copy of Brown's statement, and induced her to give him (Buchan) an order on the attorneys for the policies against the defendants, and that in order to keep her from seeing her attorneys he induced her to remain at his house, and afterward obtained for her a pass and seather to Colorado, and later on to Missour. It is alleged that the defendants violated the State law by concealing and compounding what they claimed were feliciles. It is alleged that be changot $700 for the pair he took in the case.

The plaintiff is very severe on Buchan, alleging that he obtained the order for her policies under false pretenses. She alieges that he told her that sue could not collect the insurance without the testimony of Brown, who could not become her witness. Buchan was a state Senator. She believed him on that account. It is also alleged the defendants in the case of soveral trials of the "Hill mon was a state Senator. She believed him on that account. It is also alleged the defendants in the case of soveral trials of the "Hill mon was a text expense through the newspapers stories topeficet that Hillmon was not dead for the purpose of prejudicing the people and preventing the plaintiff from getting fair Jury.

The plaintiff prays that the matters alleged the dead of the purpose of prejudicing the people and preventing the plaintiff form getting afir CHARGES AGAINST BUCHAN.

The plaintiff prays that the matters al-leged be inquired into, and that the superin-tendent of the insurance department take such action as may be necessary to protect the policy holders in the companies in Ransas, and the people of the State from the alleged unfair and fraudulent acts of the defendants in the future. The complaint contains twenty-two pages of closely type-written matter.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.

The above is Mrs. Hillmon's side of the story. But the insurance companies have another tale to teil. Here is the Hillmon case as they teil it.

John W. Hillmon was about 34 years old at the time of his alieged death near a edicine Lodge, Kan., in 1878. On Oct. 5, 1878, he was married to Sallie E. Quinn. Four months later he disappeared. he started for Wichita with John H. Brown. The next heard of Hillmon was that he had been shot accidentally by Brown and buried near Medicine Lodge.

A few days after his alleged death he dentally by Brown and buried near Medicine Lodge.

A few days after his alleged death his widow put in a claim to the Mutual Life and the New York Life Insurance Cos. of New York and the Connecticut hutual of Hartford for $40,000 insurance on his life.

The companies decided to fight, and the sirst trial was at Leavenworth, in the United states Circuit Court, in June, 1822. The jury failed to agree, and in 1825 the case was tried again at the same place before Judge David J. Brewer, with a like result.

The third trial was in Topeka in February, 1838, before Judge Shiras, and a vertict was rendered for the plaintiff. A motion for a new trial was made and allowed after five years delay, it being set down for trial the present month.

rears delay, it being set down for trial the present month.

When the body alleged to be that of Hillmon was exhumed at Medicine Lodge a warrant was issued for the arrest of Brown, his partner, as it was alleged that he had killed a man so as to provide a corpse for the insurance claim. Brown went away to Texas, and another warrant was issued for the apprehension of Levi Baldwin, Mrs. Hillmon's cousin, who had obtained the policies on her husband's life. He also disappeared and did not return until the case had been tried the third time and decided in Mrs. Hillmon's favor.

THE CASE CHANGES.

While these proceedings were going on, Brown, it is said, broke down, and made a statement in substance as follows: He said that he had entered into a conspiracy in December, 1878, with Hillmon and Levi Baidwin to defraud the life insurance companies by insuring Hillmon's life. Baidwin was to furnish the money and Hillmon and Brown were to manage the disappearance of the former. They started for Wichita and on the way picked up a strange man named Joe Berkies.

way picked up a strange man named Joe Berkley.

This man, Brown alleged, was shot by Hillmon, who dressed the corps in his own clothing and put his diary in his pocket. Hillmon put on Berkley's clothing, and, saying that there was "a corps ready made" to impersonate him, he left the camp. He told Brown that he should assume the name of Marshall and lay low until they got the money on the policies.

After Brown had made this confession it was discovered that he had prevaricated. The dead man was not Joe Berkley, but Frederick Adolph Walters, a young German cigarmaker of Fort Madison, lo, who had gone to Lawrence in 1878. He disappeared about the time Hillmon did, and his parents and sister, Fannie Waltera, being attracted by the description given in the newspapers of the dead man, went to Lawrence and identified him as Walters.

This brought the matter down to a piain case of alleged murder, fraud and perjury. But it is also stated Brown has repudiated his statements in regard to the disappearance of Hillmon.

But during all this time the insurance companies had pear for a money.

CRIMINAL NEWS.

tective, as it is claimed, finally induced Hillmon to leave Mexico and on their arrival in Idaho revealed to him his true character, and succeeded in gaining from him a full story of the plot. Whether these alleged claims of the insurance companies are worthy of credeace or not will depend largely upon their ability to produce the alleged Hillmon at the trial and convince the court that he is the man mourned as dead.

So famous has the Hillmon case become that it was used by S. H. Snider, the Superintendent of Insurance of Kansas, to justify his order that insurance of Kansas, to justify his order that insurance illigation must hereafter be conducted only in the Kansas state courts by foreign corporations.

In the past the companies have, it was charsed, generally transferred their suits to the Federal courts, involving long contests and usually wearing the claimants out. Mr. Snider pointed to the Hillmon case as an instance where the widow had been "unjustly" kept out of her money by long and harrowing court contests in the Federal tribunals.

The amount of money involved in the suit,

The amount of money involved in the suit, with accrued interest, is something like $80,000. THE SUIT BEGINS.

When the case was called to-day Mrs. Hillmon, who has been married several years to a second husband, was present accompanied by five attorneys, and a large number of ata second husband, was present accompanied by five attorneys, and a large number of attorneys for the insurance companies were on hand. Mrs. Hillmon's attorneys asked that the insurance companies be barred from transacting business in Kansas because of their refusal to pay her claim. The only new development in the case was the offering in evidence by Mrs. Hillmon's attorneys of three sets of photographs. Two are of John W. Hillmon, furnished by his wife, two are of Frederick A. Waters, who, the insurance companies claim was killed in place of Hillmon, furnished by Maters' family, and the other two are of the corpse as it lay in the commander to the companies. The photographs show a strong resemblance between Hillmon and the man in the coffin. The attorneys for Mrs. Hillmon argued that the attention of the officers of the insurance companies interested should be brought to the acts of their agents, that the principal officers of the insurance companies interested should be brought to the acts of their agents, that the principal officers of the insurance companies are not aware of the steps taken by the companies' agents during the past fifteen years. They claim also that these agents have been guilty of many criminalities in fighting the claim. The argument will not be concluded until to-morrow.

Wife She Was Dead.

DEATH SUPPOSED TO BE DUE TO AN OVERDOSE OF HEADACHE POWDERS.

The Woman Came to Mrs. Gilbert's Pur nished Room House at 6:80 O'Clock and Four Hours Later Was Dead-Said She Had Quarreled With Her | Mother in-Law-Conflicting Stories.

nan who was found dead last nigh in the furnished room house at 1124 Pine street has been identified as Mrs. Lulu Powers of 809 North Fifteenth street. She lived at this number with her husband, W. C. Powers, and the latter's mother, who is a dressmaker. Powers is a furniture mover.

Last night about 6:20 o'clock there was a ring at the door of 1124 Pine street. Mrs.

Glibert, the housekeeper, responded. ound a little woman on the steps who said she wanted a room. Mrs. Gilbert, as is her custom, asked no questions, but took the girl up stairs and assigned her to quarters. only information the woman volum teered about herself was that her name was Luiu and that she had been living with her mother-in-law. They had a quarrel, she said, and so she decided that she would not stay with her any more.

FOUND HEE DEAD.

About 10:80 o'clock, according to Mrs. Gilbert, the husband called at the house. He and the landlady took him up to th room. The new-comer was lying on the bed with her clothes on. Mrs. Gilbert went over to wake her up and found that she was dead. In her pocket was found. a little red envelope containing an antidot wder for headache.

The husband said that the dead woman had been suffering from neuralgia for a day or two, and had bought ten of the powders. As there was but one left she must have taken the other nine. Mrs. Gilbert notified the ce of what had happened, and the corps was taken to the Morgue.

The statement of Powers differs somewhat from that of Mrs. Gilbert. He was seen this morning by a Post-Disparch reporter. He "Lou left the house last night about 6 o'clock," he said, "without saying where she was going. As she did not return by 10 I went out to see what had become of her. A man named Murray, who lives in the same house with us and who plays a banjo in a saloon at Twelfth and Pine streets told me had heard that Lou was dead at 1124 Pine street. I went there and found the body had been removed to the Morgue.

"The woman that runs the house told me that when Lou came there she asked to be waked up before il o'clock. She went upstairs, she said, at 10:30 and found her dead. My wife and I never had a cross word."

Powers could give no explanation of why the woman had hired the room unless it was that the powders had made her so sleepy that she could not get home.

The mother-in-law, who is a nice looking old had, said that she and her daughter-in-law had no trouble yesterday evening at all, and that they had always gotten along nicely together. Murray could not be found. Deputy Coroner Fred Robling is investigating the cause of death and will have the one mother where which is left examined, to determine its ingredients. From present indications it tlooks as though this medicine was the cause of death and if this turns out to be the case steps will be taken to prevent the indiscriminate and careless sale of it. The medicine was purchased at the Boston Drug Store, 142 Prank-lin avenue.

Mrs. Powers was a nice-looking woman, 28 HOW POWERS HEARD IT.

rs. Powers was a nice-looking woman, 20 irs. old, but did not look her years. She s married to Powers last May.

Andrew Martin, However, Insulted Frank Suda's Sister and Was Shot.

The further investigation of the shooting Andrew Martin by Frank Suda yesterday venue, between Taylor and Newstead aveavenue, between Taylor and Newstead avenues, throws an entirely different light on the case. From the new report it would appear Martin had not attempted any criminal assault on Ella Suda, sister of the shooter, and in view of this fact Capt. Keeble of the Fifth District has withdrawn the guard he had placed over the wounded man, aow at St. Mary's Infirmary, on Fifteenth and Papin streets.

had placed over the wounded man, how at St. Mary's infirmary, on Fifteenth and Papin streets.

It is now stated that John Jennings and Martin were passing the Suda tent in a buggy, when Martin who was drunk, said:

"There is my girl," referring to Ella Suda, who was standing in front of the tent. Jennings said she was his girl, and it is said that at this juncture Miss Suda replied that she was not the girl of either of them and emphazized her remark by hurling a lot of cans and bottles at the occupants of the buggy, Martin got out of the buggy, went back to the tent, and it is said, that Miss Ella, met him, shot; gun in hand and ordered him to stand back, at the same time drawing a bead on him. While trying to pull Martin away, the latter got hold of the gun and finally took it from Elle, failing from the effort. While he was getting on his feet axein, it is said that Frank Suda, the brother of the girl, came up with another shot gun and pointing the weapon at Martin fired, the contents taking effect in the latter's right hip. Suda was arrested on the strength of these developments, and is being held to await the result of Martin's injuries.

then it has been proposed to erect it on Vandeventer and Laclede avenues, but just now a most determined effort is being made to Carr Park is an oblong piece of ground that comprises two full city blocks, and extends from Wash street to Carr street and almost from Fourteenth to Sixteenth street, its real eastern and western boundaries, however, conspiracy to put him out of the being known as atchison place and selby way had led to the commission of place. Its members comprise the farmers and gardeners of St. Louis County as well as ose residing within the city limits. those residing within the city limits. The association was organized some months ago for the purpose of bettering the condition of the farmer, who must bring his produce into the city to sell it. All of these men claimed that they had no privileges in the city at all. They alleged that if they brought in a wagon loaded with farm products they could find no place to halt their wagon or unload their goods. They could not stand on the highwaps without being told by the police to move on, and as they had no market place they found themselves in a rather disagreeable predicament every time they came to the city.

that its first step should be to endeavor to secure better marketing facilities for its members. So it appointed a committee to look after the matter. Some prominent and well posted men were in the society, among them, Probate Judge Shore of Clayton. They secured an option on a tract of land fronting on the west side of Varideventer avenue, between Laclede and Duncan avenues, with a depth of 242 feet, which they might purchase for the princely sum of $115,000. The committee-reported this fact to the association, which seemed to like the locality and drew up plans to buy the ground and erect thereon an immense market place covered by one huge roof, under which the farmers as they came in from the country might drive their wagons, unload their produce and sell it direct to the consumers if they chose to come there and buy. Committees were appointed to solicit subscriptions, and it was determined to buy the ground if the city would aid in erecting secure better marketing facilities for its subscriptions, and it was determined to buy the ground if the city would aid in erecting the building. Several thousand dollars were raised during November and December last, but the officers found that they would have considerable trouble in getting the city tog oin with them on a deal of this kind, and fearing that if they went it alone, the public might look upon it as a private enterprise, and decline to patronize it, they decided to drop their pet project of a Vandeventer avenue market and adopt a new line of action.

THE ORDINANCE. So they went to Mr. Paulus Gast, who, by the way, is a fruit grower himself, and had him on Feb. 16 last introduce in the Conneil an innocent-looking bill providing for the sale by the Mayor and Comptroller the Union Market property and application of the proceeds to the acquisition of a market for gardeners and farmers, such "new market to be centrally located for the convenience of producers, consumers, shippers and dealers in all agricultural and horticultural products; also for dealers in fresh meats, poultry, game, fish, etc." proceeds all agricultural and horticultural products; also for dealers in fresh meats, poultry, game, fish, etc."

The bill was given a second reading on Feb. 20, and referred to the Council Committee on Ways and Means. Since then the object of the association in having the bill introduced has become known. It wants the city to use the proceeds of the sale jointly with the funds it will collect to secure the present Carr Park site and several adjacent blocks and erect thereon a market place, extending from Fourteenth street to Sixteenth street, and from Wash street probably as far north as Biddle. The association proposes to have the market place built after the same design as that proposed for its Vandsventer avenue structure. It short, it proposes to cover the around now occupied by Carr Park and the adjacent blocks with one big roof where under the farmers and gardners can halt their wagons, unload their produce and sell it direct to wheever may care to purchase it. Secretary Anton Apperman, when seen by a Post-Disparch reporter, admitted that such was the association's object in having the bill introduced.

DUTIABLE VALUE OF COCAINE. An Interesting Case Argued Before Judge Thayer.

The question as to the dutiable value of muriate of cocaine was argued at length bel fore Judge Thayer in the United States Circuit Court this morning. The suit was brought by Col. Richard Dalton under instructions from the Secretary of the Treasury, and was practically an appeal from the decision of the United States Board of Apdecision of the United States Board of Appraisers at New York. The latter body held that muriate of cocaine was dutiable at 50 cents a pound while the Treasury Department claim that it comes under a classification which renders it dutiable at 55 per cent ad valorem. The custom officials here will try to force the Maillinckroft Chemical Works to pay the latter rate should the decision be in their favor. Judge Thayer heard arguments and took the case under advisement. United States Circuit Attorney Reynolds made what will probably prove his last appearance in his official capacity in this case, as he expects his successor to take energe of

IT must be very annoying to a United States Senator to have a blundering broker. Every statesman's Wall Street interests should be properly looked after.

A PITTSBURG millionaire is trying to buy an extensive estate in England. Are all our Pennsylvania millionaires to put their money into hated free-trade Great Britain?

SENATOR MCPHERSON says he is not in favor of a gigantic stride downward from the McKinley bill. In other words, the Senator is not a Democrat. Does he wish to be so understood?

IF Senator Hill's attack on the Wilson bill is the worst thing that has happened to that measure, it must also be admitted that it is the worst thing that has happened to Senator Hill.

"You will soon be called upon to serve your country with a knapsack, canteen and musket," says a Colorado newspaper to its readers. Let the new moon be carefully scanned for blood spots.

"THE tariff is a business question," another man's business may be started and kept going.

IT is charitable to suppose that President Cleveland would not have nominated Senator White Associate Justice had he known what has since been revealed concerning that gentleman's connection with the sugar interest.

THE Democrats of Frederick County Md., respectfully and earnestly request the United States Senators from Maryland to work for the passage of the Wilson bill. It is said day for the Democratic party if such petitions are necessary to the carrying out of its plainest principles.

MR. Howells says: "In any average seembly of Americans, the greatest millionaire would take the eyes of all from the greatest statesman, the greatest poet, or the greatest soldier we ever had." In view of all tile glory, why should a millipaire dent Cleveland in the exercise of his appointive power. Following the Van Alen and Olney scandals is the White candal, which is capped by the revelation hat the Senator-Justice drew over $30,000 n sugar bounties last year. But does not the President tempt an unkind fate in his ppointments?

A WASHINGTON letter says: "Shamele eeking, wretched in its utter pruriency and moral filth, the Senate sits here oper palmed to money. It is a marvel wrath of men does not rise to its destruction. It goes about its crime the hardy, noonday unconciousness of an animal. It is as alse to trust as a sheep-killing dog. The only antidote is its destruction; the only ure its death." These be grievous words, but what if they be even approximately true? Is it any wonder that even a modrate reform bill is delayed in a body that as so little regard for the public welfare?

KISSING THE ROD.

If the Democratic State Convention under the prompting influence of cuckoo or gans and politicians indorse the National Administration what becomes of Senators Vest and Cockrell and the bulk of the Missouri delegation in the House?

Both Senators from Missouri opposed the 'gold-bug'' policy of the Administration. Both were snubbed and disciplined for refusing to yield to the President's dictation in the matter of coinage legislation. Both were so pointedly ignored by the President that ordinary self-respect compelled them to cease all relations with him. They were forced into the attitude of marked unfriendliness. When the President had need of their votes both were insulted with vulgar proffers of patronage bribes to purchase their subserviency.

What is true in this respect of the Mis souri Senators is true in some degree of every Democratic member of the Missour delegation except Mr. Cobb. who has received his full reward for differing from his colleagues. Every other member has felt the lash for opposition to the presidential will.

But in opposing the President's policy the Senators and Representatives were faithful to the principles and wishes of their constituents. An indorsement of the Administration's course by the Misouri Democrats would, therefore, be condemnation of their Representatives for fidelity to them. It would signify approval of the turning down and snubbing of their Representatives, for choosing to serve them rather than the President. It would signify approval by the Missouri Democracy of all efforts to whip or seduc its Representatives into betrayal of its trust and denial of its convictions.

The cuckoo politicians who ask the Missouri Democracy to sing Hallelujah in praise of the Administration which has roughly disregarded its wishes and chastised its faithful Representatives will undoubtedly profit by its submission, but it is hard to see anything in it for the Missouri Democrats except a reputation for "yaller dog" subserviency hitherto unequaled.

THE WHITE SCANDAL

The congratulations indulged by mer of all parties over the appointment of Senator White of Louisiana to the Suprem Court turn to deepest chagrin in the light of revelations concerning his relations with the sugar interest. At the time of his appointment he was not suspected of any such entanglement. He was not known as a "retained" Senator, much less that he was a stockholder in interests demanding Government aid and comfort.

His failure to resign his seat in the Senate or refuse the proffered judicial honor caused a painful surprise, but it was not until he appeared as the passionate advo cate of sugar bounties and duties that surprise and dismay turned to disgust. And now the whole truth is known. says a protection organ. That is just what He is one of the principal benthe tariff is. It is a question of taxing a eficiaries of the bounty law, having man whose business is not protected that received more than $30,000 last year as his share of the bounty. He is not only a planter but a refiner of sugar and is therefore interested in both bounty and duty. He holds his seat in the Senate in order to vote money out of the public treasury into his own pocket. In his opinion clearly, public office is not a public trust, but a

The immediate effect of the res ntative Morse of Massachusetts to ing of the monstrous blunder which the proposal embodies. It is reported from Washington that intense feeling has been aroused among the advocates and oppo nents of the resolution. It is proposed to hut off discussion of the question in comnittee for fear that free thinkers may give ense to religious people.

The first effect of an attempt to mix religion and politics is the stirring up of animosity, and the first move is a proposition to shut off free discussion. Both involve incalculable dangers to the welfare of the American people and the stability of American institutions. The end of an attempted innovation, of which this is the beginning, can easily be foreseen. It is an end to be avoided by all means.

The men and women who are trying to have God put in the Constitution, with good enough intentions, no doubt, are ommitting as great a blunder in the cause of God as in the cause of man. They have studied history to little benefit if they do not know that the greatest damage that can be wrought on the cause of religion is to mix it up with Government, and that the greatest evil that can be inflicted upon a people is to have a religious creed injected into their civil government. Representative Morse has learned little from the history of his own State if he does not know that there can be no partnership of creed and the Government without infinite injury to both and to the people. The name of God has never yet been connected with human government without being abused to the detriment of church and State. Perhaps the greatest result for the wel fare of mankind achieved by the men who founded this republic is the absolute sepa ration of church and State, of religion and politics. The free church and the fre

State have thriven apart as they never Idid and never could thrive together. Our experiment in this direc tion has educated the civilized world and brought it out of bloody strife and misery into peace and happiness. The forging of the first link to bind the two together is the undoing of all that has been accomplished. With God in the constitution the will be opened to all the wrongs that have een done in his name against mankind Bigotry is a maggot which, when once le in, breeds all manner of vileness-lies persecutions and murders. As Roge Williams said to the men of Massachusette when he warned them against issuing the civil power in the interest of their religion: 'You are on a path where there is no halting place."

We are now confronted by an attempt o bigotry to nullify the constitutional prohibition with regard to religious tests as a ualification for office and deny rights guaranteed by it to all citizens irrespective of religious faith. What folly it would be to give it a handle in the organic law with which to work all of its possible villainy.

L'ETAT, C'EST MOI.

It is said that Mr. Blanchard of Louisiana, who has just been appointed Senator any tariff bill which does not give "due consideration' to sugar, although he voted for the Wilson bill in the House, The reason assigned is that in the House he represented the people of Northern Louisiana, who do not produce sugar, but in the Senate he will represent the whole State.

In other words the State is identical with a few sugar planters and refiners who drew some $10,000,000 from the Treasury last year in bounties besides a few millions more in virtue of the taxing power conferred upon them by the protective tariff, Plutocracy and Democracy are one, according to this view. The plutocrat says with the grand monarch of France, "I am the State."

This is the issue raised in the Senate by the Democratic "conservatives," the 'retained'' Senators of both parties and the legislators in both Houses who are in the habit of voting money out of the pockets of the people into their own.

Is It Another Blunder

From the New York WORLD, March 6. Senator White did not take his seat on the Supreme Bench yesterday. He remains in the Senate in order to protect sugar. He has een appointed a Judge of the highest tribu nal in the country and he has accepted the ffice and been confirmed by the Senate. Still he lingers in the legislative chamber.

This is scandalous. It is still more scanda lous if, as stated, the sugar interest is not only a State but a personal matter with Mr White. A man who will legislate for his personal interests is not fit to be a Senator muci sitting on the bench he is dodging his new office to lobby, deal and intrigue for sugar. Is it possible in his last judicial appointment Mr. Cleveland has blundered again?

The "Conservatives."

From the Charleston News and Courier.
Washington dispatches say that the fate of the tariff bill appears to rest with six "Conservative" Senators-Brice of Ohio, Hill and Murphy of New York, Smith of New Jersey, and White and Caffery of Lonisians. If this be true the tariff bill is in a bad way. one of the six "Conservative" Senators named is interested in tariff legislation onl to the extent of the special industries and the particular locality which he represents. Brice will vote against the bill if wool is put on the free list, White and Caffery will sink the party rather than give up the duty of sugar, Murphy regards his first allegiance as due to the collar manufacturers of Troy, aith has private interests to serve and Hill generally bent on mischief. To the Editor of the Post-Disputch: How few of our smaller merchants, aborbed in the daily details of trade and the sive serious thought, as equally important, to those economic questions so directly affecting them as agents of the producer and consumer in the exchange and distribution of production. Debts, in various forms, are being constantly augmented by interest and by loss of purchasing power in price of products and wages of labor, and are thus drawing a larger and larger proportion from diversined industries into fixed and arbitrary channels. The margin of business of purely local origin is reaching the ragged edge, and only the aggregated, monopolising concern finds a safe footing for its favored feet. Some of these small merchants give an anxious glance at the tariff outlook, but that internal trade which is affected by far more direct and swesping causes, they often forget. They forget the curse of debt, the constant drain of which dries up the source of national vigor, breeds financial piracy, creates corruption funds, causes political degeneracy and social disorder. There is no excuse in economic science for the Issue of bonds, and never has been. Society, as a whole, can make good all its obligations without giving a set of mancial vultures a lien, with interest, on the industry of the future. Bonds are a speculative swindle, a modern game of "chuck-a-luck," in which the other fellow chuckles at his luck while the people keep of paying the bills and the sleepy merchant. give serious thought, as equally important "Chuck-a-luck," in which the other lands chuckles at his luck while the people keep of paying the bills and the sleepy merchant, some fine morning after the sun falls full in his face, will wake up to the realization of the fact that, as sure as that "other fellow" gets more money in his the fact that, as sure as that "other fellow" gets more money in his safe, he gets less "nickels in the slot." It is the busy man who lets his politics run at loose ends and makes his opinions up second-hand off of the musty shelves of the politician's stock in trade, from whom the country has much to fear. He listens to the views of boards of trade—which are mostly mere sounding boards, echoing the sentiments of money-changers in the centers of finance—and he forgets that "wind" and "water" methods of profit on bank credit, stock, grain and securities unsettle and undermine legitimate business. But as the small business man opens his eyes wider he will find that his interests lie with those who produce wealth in "original packages" and consume in detail. Either that or he will have to adapt himself soon, in self-preservation, to new methods of exchange under a cooperative industrial system.

Land for Single Taxers.

To the Editor of the Post- Disputch: Uncle Tom presents a pretty poem in las Saturday's issue. The theory which he spin Saturday's issue. The theory which he spins from the fine and fancy zephyrs of his delicate fancy, and the woof of facts about broad acres in Missouri, is exquisite as a logical fabric.

But though the legions of broad acres are lying idle in the counties he names, they are not being held out of use.

I happen to know almost every acre of Reynolds, Iron and most of Wayne; also much of the others.

I happen to know almost every acre of Reynolds, Iron and most of Wayne; also mnch of the others.

If Uncle Tom has any friends who are yearning for some of these broad acres, I will get them a few thousand at from 10 cents to 31 per acre—the latter for land that has a fine growth of pine timber on it.

There are thousands of acres in the counties he cites for which owners will not pay the present moderate taxes, preferring to lose the land. The ex-sheriffs, he will find, and the editors of local papers own hosts of this tax title land; because, as often it will not sell at the Sheriff's sale for enough cash to pay the legal advertising, the Sheriff and the editors go into 'cahoots' and each gets every other parces.

There are millions of unclaimed acres in Missouri, Patches of this are arable and choice but there is no access to them.

True, under these acres lies fabulous mineral wealth. I have seen places in Iron and Washington Countles where a man could stop a four-mule wagon and load it with high-grade lead ore that lay loose on the surface and not go five feet from the wagon. I saw a well near Beigräde, Washington Couthat was forty feet deep and all but three feet of it had been dug through loose, gravelly, rich iron ore, valuable for steel because it contains less than the fatal 13 per cent of phosphorous.

There are a thousand Joplins and Webb Cities in embryo underneath the broad and beautiful bosom of magnificent old Missouri. They are only waiting to be dug out. And Missouri is the only State that can grow, between the miners, tween the mines, the wherewith to feet the miners.

To develop the charms of Mother Missouri is one of the few things that single tax, nor nor no other tax will do. Only the great civilizer, the railroad, with steam, the essence of power, inspiring the spirit of progress, stimulating industry and making markets within reach, can mature magnificent Missouri.

The Basis of Stead's Tannt

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: In your editorial of yesterday entitled "Beyond His Depth," in criticising Mr. Stead's views, you make the following remark: "Perhaps having discovered that the people here have less power than in Russia, Mr. Stead can tell us where the power resides. ' You then show that it does not reside in the President or in Congress, and rather make light of the waspish and sensation-loving resident or in congress, and rather make light of the waspish and sensation-loving editor.

Permit me therefore to say that I am an American born, and love my country-dearly, and would not willingly calumniate her; and yet allow me to suggest that the will of the people has had but a small part to do with either the Government of this country or the enactment of its laws for some time past. The will of the people has been very like the rage of a blind elephant; it plunges about hither and thither, overthrowing friend and foe alike. It crushes one party with an overwhelming defeat, and enthrones the other only to find that the united subtlety of the elected is exercised in thwarting the will of the people. This party is in turn knocked down and the same old scoundrels smilingly confront them in the party raised up.

If then you would know where the power of this country resides you can find it aimost universally recognized, but hardly whispered above the breath of the people, primarily in the saloon or "The Gin-Mil Oligarchy." It may be secondarily found in the hands of "unscrupulous wealth," which finds the primary power ready to prostitute which has dominated Legishtures, dictated to executive officers, and even prescribed rules for our courts, and has made popular Government a farce. These powers going hand in hand, beget these abnormal conditions, and foster theseinot-beds of iniquity, that not only cause the snears of civilized monarchies, but even provoke the scorn and contempt of the heathen as well. Let the people deal summarily with these, and no longer can the taunts of foreigners find an echo amona our own people.

s a good one. The only thing to be regretted is a good one. The only thing to be regretted is that it is to be inaugurated at a time when the chances are overwhelming that the Republicans will sweep the city. It is about time that the energetic hustiers of the Democratic party took hold of things. The young men of the various wards go out on primary day, and, by hard work, elect their deleration, composed mostly of young men; the delegations go into convention and the first thing they do is to nominate a lot or old fossis named at a caucus held from one to seven days before the convention meets. The caucus is made up of a hair dozen Central Committeenen, a doctor or two, a boss, a few officeholders and Recorder of Voters Carlisle, If the convention does not happen to ratify a few officeholders and Recorder of Voters Carlisle, If the convention does not happen to ratify the ticket as selected by the cancus, why the cancustes lose interest in the ticket. He played shortstop that way and nobody could tell him different. That story about his being ill-treated by Spaiding after he had received that injury in Paris was emaggerated. Under Strong Pressure He Quits His Seat in the Senate.

CONGRESSMAN NEWTON C. BLANCHARD APPOINTED HIS SUCCESSOR.

vated by the Post-Dispatch. Prove

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—Senator White of Louisiana, admonished by the press criticisms pointing out the manifest impropriety of continuing to hold his seat in the Senate for the purpose of advancing his own and his constituents' interests after having been confirmed as an Associate Justice of the United States Sume Court, has at last resigned his seat in Senate, and the Governor of Louisiana has appointed Congressman Newton C Bianchard to fill the vacancy. Mr. White's resignation was tendered by telegraph yes. day and takes effect March 12, when Mr.

Senator-elect Newton Crain Blanchard is a native of Louisiana, 45 years of age. He re-ceived an academical education and was fucated for the law, beginning practice at Shreveport in 1871. He has been active the politics of his parish and the State, active in ged on the staffs of Govs. Wiltz and McEnto the Forty-seventh. Forty-eighth, Fortynth, Fiftieth, Fifty-first' and Fifty-second Congresses and was re-elected to the Fiftythird. His home is in Shreveport.

the newspaper publications calling attention to the impropriety of Senator White's course, has been daily growing stronger in course, has been daily growing stronger in condemnation of his conduct.

The Senator's own colleagues have talked treely among themselves of his error, for both the friends and opponents of the tax on sugar have regarded Mr. White's course as a mistake, even the sugar planters' lobby here agreeing that the prospect of securing a satisfactory sugar schedule was injured by Mr. White's continuance in the Senate.

Senator White would not discuss his last night's action to-night. He is suffering with a severe cold, and has denied himself to all callers. He may not take his seat upon the Supreme Court bench for several days, possibly not until next Monday.

In a social game of penuchie Bernhard m, Coilins and Carr streets, and Frederick Stocke of the Western saloon, Carr and Third streets, the following run was made by Mr. Neakum which surpasses all former records made in meiting in one single hand; Double penuchle, 500; four aces, 100; four kings, 50; four queens, 50; tramps, 180; hearts, 20; clubs, 20; trumps, 40, spades (double), 40, and dies 10, total, 830. The game was played with a double deck of cards and this is the largest meiting in one hand known. In 1783 Herr Von Grippen meited in a single hand in Brooksall, Germany, 780, which was the highest ever known to have been melted on one single hand before the game above thentioned. It will therefore be seen that herr-hard Neukum has beaten Herr Von Grippen by sixty points and is therefore now declared king of the game of penuchle, not only in this country but all over the world.

Mrs. Churchill was locked up on the complaint of ened to kill him. The trouble between Bow man and his mother-in-law is said to be the abandonment of he daughter by him and he is now under this charge in the Court of Criminal Correction. This morning Mrs. Churchill had her case in the Police Court continued until March 15. She is under two charges, one of disturbing the peace and the other carrying concealed weapons. Before she left the Four Courts Mrs. Churchill is said to have made the threat that she would kill Bowman before he could be brought to trial for wife abandonment,

THE IRON TRADE.

The First Week of March Brings Little

Encouragement. CLEVELAND, O., March 8 .- It cannot be said any encouragement to the iron trade. Quietnny encouragement to the fron rate. Quiet-ness prevails at centers usually most active. The reaction from the spurt of a few weeks ago, that gave rise to so many predictions of betterment, has been complete, and there is evidence beside that prices have slipped be-low the point maintained previous to the ad-vance.

If the buying of the past week were taken as a criterion it would be said that the drift was backward. From every pig iron market in the country the report comes of limited transactions and a disposition to wait and feel the way. Pig iron stocks accumulated somewhat in February, and on foundry and forge grades, at least, the tendency is still in that direction. Opinions differ as to the effect of the low prices of ore outside the soft steel market, untit is apparent that the new basis will at east draw the line more closely on Southern rons, and favoring freights will not cut so arge a figure in marketing the product of intge a ngure in marketing the product of that section. Pittsburg reports further weakness in bessemer pig and billets. There is a shortened demand for both and a round lot of bessemer pig was sold at $10.50 during the week. It is reported that several thousand tons of billets have been disposed of at $15.25 at makers' mills.

SHOEMAKERS OUT.

General Strike Threatened at Johanneen Bros. Over the Turnverein's Troubles. Eight time men employed by Johannsen Bros., shoe manufacturers, 921 North Eleventh street, have quit or been discharged. Unless the trouble between them and their employers is settled, the remaining union meh. 125 to 15) in number, will strike. The turn-men say a reduction of ing union men, 125 to 15) in number, will strike. The turn-men say a reduction of about 20 per cent, on an average of about $12 a week, is the cause of the difficulty.

Johannsen Bros. were called upon to give their side of the difficulty. Johann Johannsen gave the firm's side of the controversy as follows: "A lasters" bill of wages was adopted by the union and accepted by us last January. We understood that the bill would apply to turn-work as well as other kind." He claimed the whole trouble originated over tan shoes, of which not more than 500 pairs are made in his shop in a year. The turn men denied that the lasters' scale applied to them. Mr. Johannsen at first said all eight of his turn men, the entire force, hod been discharged for incompetency but modified that statement later by saying the foreman had been discharged and the men followed yesterday. foreman had been discharged and the men followed yesterday. Union will be held at 1 o'clock to-morrow at Spellbrink's Hail, 1317 Franklin avenue. The regular meeting is Tuesday. The remaining employes are at work and Foreman Sneed said that there would be no alternative but a strike unless the matter was adjusted.

of the United States and Canada was dicussed at a meeting of the Building Trades Council last night. The idea meets with great favor with mest unions. At present each city has its ewn council and it is by nationalizing these councils that the trades are to be reached, thus avoiding an unwieldy mass of delegates in conventions.

Two rival unions of cab grivers recently organized are quarreling bitterrly among themselves. Some months ago the Hack and Cab Drivers' Association split up over the question of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, which resulted in only a part of them being affiniated. A few weeks age a second union was formed and their charter arrived recently, but has not been turned over to them. Union No. 1 objects to this being dene and has forwarded a remonstrance to President Gompers.

Tuesday Night Was a Success. The progressive euchre party given for the 'N. K. Club" at the residence of Mrs. M. F. Lucas, 1787 Missouri avenue, proved to be a very pleasant affair. The sale of tickets had been among the friends of the club giving the entertainment, and the attendance was quite large. There were seventeen tables occupied, the tables and chairs bei cessful Affair. The grand basket sociable and entertainment given by Germania Lodge, No. 1254. American Legion of Honor, at Wenzel's Hall, Eighth and Franklin avenue, Tuesday night, for the beneft of the Lake Employment Fund, was a great success. It was well attended by the many friends of Germania Council, the only German council of this city, and a pleasant evening was spent. The musical and literary programme arranged for the entertainment was most pleasing. It included an overture by the Germania Band, composed of boys under the age of 13; an opening ode, "The American Legion of Honor; the address of welcome by Dr. Gib W. Carson, Grand Cammander of the Order; the opening address by Chancellor Henry Baer; vocal duet by the Martin sisters; plano solo by Miss Goldberg; song by Mr. John Hoolan and a song and dance by Darby Kane, a Post-Disparch newsboy. These various features were most pleasing, and the ladies and gentlemen taking part in the programme were given a flattering reception by the audience present. The most amusing and interesting feature of the evening was the auction sale of the baskets donated by the ladies attending the entertainment. Recorder of Deeds "Billy" Hobbs acted as auctioneer for the occasion and covered himself with giory. Under his persuasive eloquence the baskets went off like hot cakes and a neat sum was realized by their sale. No admission ice had been charged for the benefit entertainment, the entire proceeds arising from the sale of baskets. Germania Council is to be congratulated for its work in behalf of the Lake Employment Fund. Tuesday night's affair was under the management of a committee consisting of Mrs. Lizzie Turner, diss Louisa Meyer, Miss Mary Humphreys and Kuckier. Their Great Opportunity for Asserting Their Strength.

fting of the Queen's Speech for the Convening of Parliament-It Will Open a New Chapter in the History of Great Britain-Iraland More Interested Than Any Other Part of the Realm-Mo-Carthy ite Dissension.

LONDON, March 8 .- The first Cabinet Counoil under the presidency of Lord Rossbery was held at noon to-day. The Ministers mainly occupied with drafting the n's speech, which is to be delivered upon the approaching opening of Parlia-ment. The speech, it is said, will be a most important document, as it will practically open a new chapter in the history of the United Kingdom, Considerable interest is manifested in the coming speech not only among the Libarals, Conservatives and other parties represented in Parliament, but among the Queen's subjects at large.

Her majesty's Irish subjects at large.

Her majesty's Irish subjects are probably more deeply interested in the drafting of this speech than any other class of subjects of the British Crown. It is unfortunate at this pritical period in history that there should be dissensions in the Irish parliamentary ranks, as even the Conservatives admit that the constant and admirable conduct in the warfare waged by the Irish people in Parliament has resulted in practically convincing the Tories that Ireland must have home rule in some shape or form.

So long as the Irish demands are refused, British legislation can only be a tedious and unsatisfactory process and the Irish parlia-mentary party, acting together, now has it in its power to overturn Lord Rosebery Government unless the new Premier has sug-ceeded in making a deal with the Unionists which would amount to completely dropping the home rule question.

This, it is thought, is not possible; and thus it is that the Irish now have the best of all opportunities of asserting their strength and winning the measure of self government

Consequently, it is hoped that wise counsels will prevail and that the personal counsels will prevail and that the personal animosities and personal jealousies will be promptly smothered and that Ireland's representatives will act as a unit when victory is almost within their grasp. There is continued dissension in the ranks of the McCarthylies, and the Healylies, who are said to number twenty-six have decided that uniess. Lord Rosebery is prepared to give the most explicit assurances in regard to home rule and the evicted tenants measures, they will divide against the Government.

It is reported that if the Dilionites show any inclination to carry matters with a high hand at the coming meeting of the party Messrs. Healy and Arthur O'Connor will refuse to serve any longer on the committee. In that event, it is added, Messrs. Esmode and O'Driscoil will resign the duties of whips and important changes in the committee are predicted.

It is said that Michael Davitt will again be a candidate for election to the House of Commons.

Notwithstanding the threatened revolt of Notwithsianding the threatened revolt of abouthere and a faction of the Irish Parlamentary party against Primier Rosebery, here is not much doubt that the new Prime illuster will have practically a united party belind him, with probable accessions, and hat he need not fear dissolution until he that he need not fear dissolution until he is ready for it.

Beloved by the whole of Scotland and the most popular man of any party with London voters hitherto Conservative, he should win over at the next election some, perhaps many constituents, while there is every reason to believe that he will hold firm his own party. Probably he will then be a stronger man before the people than Mr. Gladstone would be. Unless all is fraud and treachery he will go to the country. On two issues—ab-man before the people than Mr. Gladstone would be. Unless all is fraue and treachery he will go to the country on two issues—absolute reform of the Lords and home rule to Ireland.

If his arty comes back to power with such a mandate, the two great measures should be law within twelve months thereafter, and if necessary for the final passage of snother home rule big, the Lords will be reformed effectually and first of all. Mr. Chamberlain has declared recently, "Rosebery will be a much more formidable champion in England of home rule than was Gladstone. His reputation as a safe man might make English conservatism accept from him as radical a bill as that refused to Gladstone."

It must not be forgotten that, after some ineffectual attempts at reform, Lord Rosebery several years ago brought in a bill which would have abolished the House of Lords and substituted an elective Senate. This is what he ze'd in the gilded chamber itself ten years ago:

"Bodies that begin to reform themselves

Bodies that begin to reform themselves when a band of destroyers is upon them do

"Bodies that begin to reform themselves when a band of destroyers is upon them do not live to complete the task, It was too late for the Senate to deliberate when Gaul was in their midst. It was too late for the House of Commons to discuss abstract questions when Cromwell was at the table. It will be too late to the when the voice which calls for radical reform becomes load and universal."

The Lords scouted his warning, and in the ten years which have since passed they have not only refused to reform themselves, but have more and more arrayed themselves against the people, and most madly in the very closing year of the decade. Hence, in pimost the last hour of his own authority, the great Commoner committed his party to their compalisory reform or abolition, and himself delegated the leadership in the conflict to one of their own order.

Henry Neus, whom the police have been seeking for two days for complicity in the brutal assault on Michael Lambert, the Salvation Army officer, at Sixth and Cerre street last week, which resulted fatally, was surrendered to the police this morning by his father. Henry is 19 years old. He has been districted in the best of the policy of with his parents at 818 South Third

John Torpy and Fred Roth, the other two who are charged with having had a hand in the fight, were arrested Tuesday night.
Torpy implicated Neus.

Lambert was taken to the City Hospital

Lambert was taken to the City Hospital Sunday as sick and destitute. The discovery of discolorations on his body by Dr. Heine Marks led to the investigation.

Nens admits having shoved Lambert aside, and says the latter turned to hit him and Torpy struck him with the cane he carried. Says Neus: "I threw a brick at Lambert while he was running after Torpy, and it hit him on the calf of the right leg. Roth then picked up a brick and struck him on the back of the head. Lambert fell down in the alley near by, but a little while afterward he got up and followed us."

Neus remained a way from home until this morning, when he returned, and was immediately surrendered by his father.

WITH MILITARY POMP.

The Benton Guards Call on "Pa" Chase During His "Birth Week" Anniversary. The most interesting event that has yet octook place Wednesday night.

A large number of guests had arrived and were being entertained by the host and hostess, and Comfort Cottage looked pretty

About 9 o'clock a drum-tap was heard on the street in front of the house, and then the the street in front of the house, and then the steady tramp of a military company. "Hurrah! hurrah! for the single tax, tax, tax! hurrah, hurrah for the single tax, tax, tax! hurrah, hurrah, for the single tax, tax, tax." With a steady march and a "shoulder arms" in came the Benton Guards, and a company of forty boys from 12 to 15 years of age, commanded by Capt. Will Sanders.
Seeing a house full of people they hesitated only for a second, for the Captain perceiving a large empty room beyond the dining-room, led them through the crowd, marched around that room, forming a hollow square about a center table, taking military possession.
"Speech, speech from 'Pa' Chase," came to the ear of that surprised and pleased old gentleman. He made a simple speech that the boys liked, referring to the ups and downs of his own boyhood, and saying that all boys had about the same experience of downs of his own boyhood, and saying that all boys had about the same experience of trips and tumbles, pains and pleasures, but boys rather liked life after all.

''Pa' Chase then gave each of the boys a card, on one side of which was the cut of his cat boat, called the "Single-tax," which he sails every summer on Lakes Minnetonka. Printed below this cut are these words: "This ship will arrive in port in the year 1990," On the other side of the card is written:

written: A healthy, noble and useful life to the boys who call on my 74th birthday at comfort Cottage, March 6, 1898.

After receiving these cards the company grounded arms. Evidently there was a con-

After receiving these cards the company grounded arms. Evidently there was a conspiracy, for sweethearts of the older soldiers immediately came in and passed around cakes and fruits.

When these were disposed of the boys all wrote their names in "Pa" Chase's birthday book, and took their departure from Comfort Cottage in an orderly manner.

Among the earlier guests of the evening were "Uncle Tom," a frequent correspondent of the Posr-Disparcil, and his wife.

A large number of young and old daily visit the aged single-taxer during his birthweek, and most welcome are the very little ones such as Jesus took in his arms and blessed.

SUGAR SPECULATORS. Senatorial circles are still excited by the published story of sugar speculation by certain Senators. For a time yesterday afternoon ridors was that a resolution proposing an investigation would be offered. This step, however, was not taken, two of the Senators named in the article contenting themselves with denials of the story, as telegraphed to the Post-Dispatch. The story was as much talked about to-day on the House side of the Capitol as in the Senate, and strangely enough the denials made by Senators McPherson and Vest did not silence the rumors about fortunes in stock dealings being made by certain Sena-tors. The Democratic members of the Way and Means Committee of the House tool every precaution against a suspicion that some one might be benefited by inside information of the committee's action on sugar When the sugar schedule was finally agreed upon it was at once publicly announced. The time of voting of the committee on the proposition was delayed until a late hour on Saturday night, so that the result could not have any effect in Wall street. On the Sunday following the tax agreed upon was known to everybody, and when the market misleading rumors.

The mystery which has surrounded the ction of the Senate Finance Committee on this matter has been the subject of general comment. Contradictory rumors have sent out from day to day, and the market has fluctuated in accordance with the favorable or unfavorable character of the reports. Not only has this fact excited much discussion, but the steady advance with only one or two jobbing reactions in the price of Sugar certificates, which has taken piace since the tariff bill was sent to the Senate, has stirred up general curiosity.

Susar, however, has not been the only stock which has responded to the reports from here. Iron and lead ore have also moved sympathetically with the statements as to the probable disposition of these schedules. In view of the mystery enveloping the Senate committee's deliberations, it is not surprising that rumors have been in circulation that the market was being manipulated by certain Senators. Senator Brice's connection with Wall street naturally made him the object of suspicion, and only last week an item of gossip to the effect that he had made $1,000,000 in sugar transactions was published in a local society paper. This same paper stated it as a rumor that certain other Senators had realized handsomely from recent stock investments. These stories have given rise to many rumors about "big thrns" being made by Senators in the sugar deal.

Democratic members of the House are much excited over these various reports, and if material changes are made in the Wilson bill which will confer any advantages on the Sugar Trust and on corporations contreiling lead and other articles, it is altogether probable that they will be bitterly attacked when the measure gets back from conference. Democratic leaders are waiting with great anxiety to see what changes are made in the Wilson bill.

MAY HAVE A GOOD EFFECT. A prominent Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee said to-day to

A prominent Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee said to-day to the Post-Disparch correspondent that the story of sugar speculations would have a good effect, as it would show the Senators, who are attacking the bill, that further delay will expose them to serious suspicions. "I do not pretend to say," he remarked, "that any Senator has actually turned his position to profit for himself. But I do kay that the delay in the Senate has aroused much subjection. I cannot understand all this mystery about the action of the Finance Committee on sugar and other articles. When we had the sugar schedule under question the point was raised that unless we settled the matter at a time when it would be impossible for anyone to use the information for speculative purposes, there might be some talk that certain members of the committee had profited by knowing just what the committee would do. I venture to say now that until the committee actually voted on the several sugar tax propositions, no one had an idea what tax would actually be agreed upon. The bill should be reported at once so that a stop couldbe put to all rumors."

It will be recalled that although the Ways and Means Committee reported in favor of a quarter of a cent tax on refined sugar, the House by an overwhelming vote refused to affect to it in fact the vote was so overwhelming that it is almost certain that if the Senate should decide in favor of the tax, it will be disagreed to by the House.

These rumors have created much excitement, and it is quite probasic that the Senate amendments will meet with very little favor in the House. The Democrats who opposed the imposition of a tax on refined sugar will stand out against any Senate amendment which carries a tax, and some exciting scenes will be witnessed in the House if the senate refuses to accept the sugar schedule as it was passed.

Senator hielperson's explanation of his transactions in wall street and his denial of the imputation that he had trained in stated that his public and private life had always been as open as a book, and now to see himself charged in such a way needed some explanation. He denied dealing with the brokers named, and said he had never bought 10,000 shares of stock in his life. When he went south the last time for his health he forgot to countermand his order and his brokers bought 1,000 shares of Sugar for him. This was a mistake and he sold it at a sacrifice. Mr. McPherson said he had never given inside information about the tariff except to one intimate friend and did not know if he used the information or not.

When Senator Vest took the floor he contented himself with a very brief denial, but it was emphatic. He said the story, so far as it related to himself, was false, and the man responsible for it was a wilful and malicious liar.

BROTHERS AS RIVALS.

They Fight and One Prosecutes the Other Vigorously in Court.

August Seim and Burkhardt Seim, two brothers, who are bitter rivals in the tinware business, figured in a case of disturbing the peace before Judge Morris this morning. The former was defendant and the latter the prosecuting witness. Burkhardt conducts his shop at 2727 Lafayette avenue while August runs one within a couple of doors of his brother. The strife between the pair has been of such a character that fights are said to have been frequent in the past year or so of the rivalry. On Feb. 28 or thereabouts the children of the two brothers met and it is said that they fought with the same spirit as their sterner parents are accused of displaying. On the same day Mr. Burkhardt Seim was sitting on his wagon in front of his store when August, the brother, approached him and is said to have talked to him about his children quarrelling with his offspring. The two brothers were soon involved in a heated argument, which was followed by a fight. August is said to have pulled Burkhardt from the wagon-seat, and when he got him on the ground struck several times with his clenched fist. A police officer was summoned to the scene and on the complaint of Burkhardt, August Seim was arrested and taken to the Lafayette Park Station on the charge of disturbing the peace. Several continuances were taken in the Police Court afterward, but to-day the case went to trial. So bitter was the feeling of Burkhardt that he hired Judge Anderson as special counsel to prosecute his brother. The evidence was heard and it was found that August's reason for fighting with his brother was because Burkhardt called him out of his name. Judge Morris, after hearing the evidence, fined August sio and costs, and the defendant immediately gave notice and bond of appeal. The two brothers are respectable merchants, but cannot agree with sach other for some unaccountable reason. the peace before Judge Morris this morning. The former was defendant and the latter the

The charges made by Miss Pollard are in detail as follows:

'The plaintiff, Madaline V. Pollard, sues the defendant on these grounds: That on or about the 1st day of April, 1884, she being a maiden of the age of 17 years and a student at the Wesleyan female seminary in the city of Cincinnati, and the defendant being then guished lawyer and orator, only known by sight to her, he made her acquaintance by accosting her on a railway train in which she was traveling from school to Frankfort, Ky., on account of the grave illness of a sis-ter. The defendant stated that he knew plaintiff's family; that plaintiff was flat-tered and fastinated by the attention and conversation of so distinguished a man, and thereafter, on or about the 80th day of July, 1884, having occasion for professional advice with reference to a certain obligation as-sumed to defray the expenses of her education, she wrote to the defendant, asking if he ild advise her, and thereupon, on or about the 3d day of August, 1884, he called at sion from the acting president to take plaintiff to drive with him, on the ground that she, the plaintiff, was the daughter of an old friend. That then and there the said defendant began by smiles to take advantage of her youth and inexperience and not only to win her affection but finally to fully dominate and control her and her life, and on or about Aug. 5, 1884, the said defendant betrayed her, and while still at school at Lexington, Ky., at the Sayre Institute and when is years old, she was obliged to go to Cincinnati, where her child was born. That being debuy in love with the said defendant she was induced by his protestations of affection to remain under his domination and control and August, 1884, to July, 1892, she submitted herself wholly to his will, having during said period borne him a second child; that during this period she did, on several occasions, desire and propose to terminate her illicit relations with him, and being studious and ambitious wished to take care of harself, but by his blandishments and persuasions he induced her to abandon each time her desires and intentions. That during all of this time the defendant was a married man, but on the 14th day of July, 1852, his late wife died, and thereafter, she being an unmarried woman, and being without fault or impurity otherwise than with the defendant, and being a woman of good repute in all respects, notwithstanding her relations to the detendant, he urged and insisted that the relations heretofore existing should continue, that, having in or about the monta of September, 1892, an opportunity offered to her to go abroad and study, she asked his consent to take advantage of it, and was then willing to wait two years for the fulfiliment of the promise to her marriage, but he would not consent to her leaving him and did induce her to continue and maintain the said relations, and in or about the month of March, 1898, she being then and now an unmarried woman, and he being then an unmarried man, he promised and agreed to marry him, which promise and agreement was made by her in consideration of the love and affection that he bore for her and because of the relation that had heretofore existed between them, and o' his avowed desire to repair the injury that had been done to her and to piace her under the protection of his influence, name and family, the resistions that had heretofore subsisted being then unknown to others than themselves. That he repeatedly made the said promise to her, and avowed at different times to her that she was his affianced wife, that he had promised and agreed to marry her, and that it was his purpose as soon as possible after the death of his wife, he could, to execute the said promise by uniting her to himself in marriage. That he proposed, in view of her condition, and agreed to solemnisting a secret marriage, to take place May 31, A. D. 1898, and he solemniy and in the presence of a witness, announced his intention to marry her at the said date. That at the time has a foresaid, he, as the defeadant well knew, was in a delicate condition, in the presence of a witness, anno promise to marry and she during all of said period being an unmarried woman promised and agreed to marry him until about the 18th day of July, 1893, when he, in disregard and violation of his promise, and well knowing that she was ready and willing to marry him, according to the mutual promises and agreements subsisting between them as hereinbefore averred, did, on the said 18th day of July, wrongfully and injuriously marry another person contrary to the promise of the defendant to the plaintiff's damage in the sum of $50,000 and therefore she brings this suit."

FILING OF THE SUIT. ridge. Since then both parties to the suit have been engaged in taking testimony in various localities in Kentucky and in Cincinnati, the attorneys for Miss Pollard endeavoring to substantiate her assertions that Col. Breckenridge seduced her when a girl in a seminary at Cincinnati, was the father of her three children, and had made repeated promises to marry her; while the statements secured by Mr. Breckenridge tend to blacken the character of the plaintiff.

Miss Pollard for a year had a clerical position in the Census Bureau at Washington and has done much writing for the newspapers, sometimes under the name of Madeline Vinton Pollard and occasionally, as Madeline Breckenridge Pollard. During the months between the filing of the suit and its trial she has lived in a house of refuse of the Episcopal Church in Washington and her brother, who was editor of a weekly paper in Kentucky, has been in the city as her adviser. ridge. In the ordinary course of events, this trial would have taken place in the Ulrcuit Court room, but the early pressure for admission decided Marshai Wilson to transfer the case to the room of the Criminal Court, the largest in the building.

Court, the largest in the building.

JUDGE ANDREW C. BRADLEY.

Judge Andrew C. Bradley, who will try the case, is a member of one of the cidest families of Washington, a man in the prime of life, of athletic figure, with a soldierly mustache and strong, even features, noted among the lawyers of the district bar for his unhesitating firmness and independence. He is a leading member of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, of which Col. Breck-enridge has been a regular attendant during his residence in Washington. Recently Judge Bradley has come into prominence through his decision against Commissioner of Pensions Lochron in the mandamus suit brought by Judge Long of Michigan.

LEGAL ARRAY.

The personnel of the legal force arrayed in the case is no less interesting. For Miss Pol-lard appear two of the best known Washington attorneys, Judge Jere M. Wilson and Mr. Calderon Carlisle. The former gained his title on the Supfame bench of Indiana, came touche Capitol as a member of Congress from that State, and after the expiration of his term settled neve in the practice of law. fig.

uring in many criminal and civil cases of local importance. He is a tall, thin man, bearing some resemblance to ex-Senator Evarts, but for an iron-gray beard and goatee. He is a most effective pleader and remarkably well versed in the technicalities of law. His colleague is of an aristocratic Spanish family, a social leader in Washington, was one of the counsel for Great Britain in the test case over the first English ship seized for sealing in the Behring Sea waters contrary to the United States laws, and has a valuable international practice.

WILL LEAD THE DEFENSE. WILL LEAD THE DEFENSE.

Col. Breekenridge, it is understood, wil does so there can be no doubt of the ability with which it will be conducted, apart from the able assistance he will receive from Col. Phil Thompson, an ex-Congressman from Kentucky, who is a brilliant lawyer. Col. Enoch Totten of counsel for defense is one of the strongest Washington attorneys, a middle-aged man with a white mustache. He is in Florida because of weak health, and will not return until the 15th, for which reason the defense has unsuccessfully endeayored to secure a further postponement of the trial. One of the most active workers in the arrangement of the does so there can be no doubt of the ability ponement of the trial. One of the most active workers in the arrangement of the defense is a son of Col. Breckenridge, who has been untiring in his efforts in his father's behalf.

The issue of the charges against Mr. Breckenridge is considered of the most vital importance to the great Kentuckian in his campaign for re-election to his seat, which will be conducted this summer. In Washington society, and particularly in Kentucky circles, the greatest interest is manifested in the case.

AT THE OPENING OF COURT.

Half an hour before 10 o'clock, the time for the Court to open, the corridors swarmed with curious men, endeavoring by every device to pass the doorkeepers. Among the vice to pass the doorkeepers. Among the curious were several old ladies, half ashamed of their presence. When Col. Breckenridge arrived there was a ruddy glow of health on his face. He was accompanied by Ben Butterworth, who had been engaged to take the place of Col. Totten in the defense. Col. Breckenridge sauntered over to the reporters' table, where he shook hands with some of his friends. "How are you feeling, Colonel?" one of them asked. "First rate, I should say I was," was the answer. answer.

Col. Phil Thompson of Breckenridge's counsel was also absent, and to the disappointment of the curious the plaintiff failed to appear, although there were two stylishly arrayed women in the court-room.

MR. MATTINGLY'S PROTEST. William F. Mattingly rose when the case was called to state that he appeared in the preliminaries in the absence of Col. Thompson. He made inquiry about some depositions which he said had been taken for the plaintiff and withdrawn from the files of the court.

plaintiff and-withdrawn from the files of the court.

Mr. Carlisle replied that the living witnesses would be produced in place of the depositions.

Mr. Mattingly protested that he had never known of an important case in which the contents of depositions had been withheld after the trial began and the defendant given no chance to take rebutting evidence. Judge Bradley ruled that the proper time to object to the depositions was when they should be offered.

Mr. Wilson for Miss Pollard gave notice that all the affidavits taken for the defendant would be objected to on the ground that they were irrelevant and much of their contents hearsay.

THE JURY SELECTED. During this prief full the panel of jurors was submitted to counsel for their inspection and vetoes. Shortly before it o'clock twelve jurors, all white business men, apparently, from their dress, in the middle walks of life, were sworn to truly try the issues between Madeline V. Pollard and William C. P. Breck-enridge. There were thirty names on the panel, and each was allowed to strike off four by the rules of the Circuit Court. It was apparent that counsel had posted themselves on the Jurors, because they rejected eight, including the five colored members of the panel. POSTPONED UNTIL TO-MORROW.

asked the Court to pass the case until tomorrow, on account of the large mass of tes-timony which had just arrived, and had not been examined, and because Mr. tButter-worth had only been called into the case the worth had only been called into the case the night before. Judge Bradley assented, and the trial was continued until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Miss Pollard was about to start for the court-house when the trial was adjourned. She was accompanied by a lady friend, who has remained with her much of late, but her lawyer sent a messenger to meet her, with the announcement of the adjournment, and she returned home. She will be present to-morrow and throughout the trial.

Wangelin would receive the appointment. The announcement was the result of a conference which Congressman W. S. Forman held yesterday with local Democratic leaders. There were three aspirants, Albert Golietz, Fred Sunkel and Mr. Wangelin. C. P. Fleischbein was at one time a candidate, but he withdrew several weeks ago. Congressman Forman was seen by a Post-Dispartich reporter to-day and he confirmed the report of Mr. Wangelin's selection, stating that he had decided to recommend the appointment of that gentleman. Mr. Wangelin is a well-known business man, being a member of the firm of Wangelin's Brossiss and one of the principal stockholders of the Brossiss oil Co. He is a son-in-law of ex-Mayor Herman G. Weber, and his selection is undoubtedly due to the latter's influence as a leader of the party.

MAY CHANGE HANDS

Probable Surprise at the Fair Grounds Sale, April 5.

COL. SELLERS' VISIT TO J. W. BROOKS, MANAGER OF THE EAST SIDE TRACK.

He Wanted Estimates on the Cost of Running a Big Meeting at the Jookey Club Track and Left the Impression That He Was Thinking of Going Into the Recine Business.

advertised to take place on April 5, and the interest taken in this event, which is really most important one in the history an association which for years been both an entertaining and educating influence in this city, is naturally very great among all classes of people. It has been generally understood, and indeed given out in a semi-official way, that the third mortgage bondholders, who consist mostly of the Directors of the association, will buy the property in.

It has been turned over to them by the Board of Directors proper as a result of the default in the interest on their bonds and the sale is being negotiated by them. The impression has been that these third mortgage bondholders would buy the property in at a nominal figure and continue the control of the race track, part of it at order to do this, however, a new charter would probably be necessary.

In controversion with these generally accredited reports stories have now and again cropped out that a syndicate of capitalists not under the control of the Francis-Maffitt Wells crowd would endeavor to get hold of the property. The last assessment on this tract put its valuation somewhere between $1,250,000 and $1,500,000. There is a bonded indebtedness on it of something like $800,000 and a noating debt of like $900,000 and a noating debt of nearly $75,000. When it is remembered that the race track is the finest in the West and that under the new conditions the property surrounding the track might be cut up into lots and put on the market it is not to be wondered at that capital seeking investment should turn its eyes in this direction.

The latest developments in relation to the affairs of this association give some color to the latter story and lead to the belief that possibly there may be some most spirited bidding at the April sale.

SELLERS' VISIT TO BROOKS. During the first part of the week Col. John M. Sellers of roofing fame paid a visit to the East St. Louis race track, for the purpose of holding a conference with J. W. Brooks, the East St. Louis race track, for the purpose of holding a conference with J. W. Brooks, the general manager of the East St. Louis Jockey Club. Mr. Brooks is a practical racing man of many years' experience and worked strongly against the interests of the Fair Grounds track during the war last summer. Col. Sellers is one of the third mortgage bondholders, but he is also a personal friend of Mr. Brooks, for whom he did some work in roofing at the latter's track.

The object of the Colonel's interview with the race track man was to get from him estimates as to the cost of running an elaborate meeting at the Fair Grounds the comping season. At Col. Sellers' request Mr. Brooks computed the amount of the overnight handicaps, the stakes, purses and general expenses, and the sources of revenue from the gate and different privileges. At the conclusion he gave him his opinion of the Fair Grounds track as a money-making investment and Col. Sellers departed.

Now the question arises why should Col. Sellers go on such a mission to Mr. Brooks, the manager of a bitter rival of the Fair Grounds Association. The latter people have Capt. Bellairs, Frank Shaw and the rest of their factotums of practical experience with thorough knowledge of the possibilities of the track from whom to gain information about this institution, and if Mr. Sellers was acting in the interest of the third mortgage holders it seems probable that he would call on some of these gentlemen for his information.

The impression he left with Mr. Brooks was that he intended embarking in the racing business himself and he probably has sofficient capital to undertake it. If he has not his position is business circles is such that he would have no difficulty in securing ample co-operation.

THE OTHER VIEW

Others surmise that Col. Sellers is acting merely as the agent for the third mortgage bondholders in securing the views of the managers of different race tracks as to improvements in the coming meeting at the Fair Grounds and with a view to securing some one of them as their manager in case they get control of the property and have a mesting. He is one of the committee of five of these bondholders who were appointed to take charge of the details of the sale.

The other gentlemen on the committee are Charles Clark, Joseph Franklin, L. M. Rumsey and C. C. Maffitt. The latter gentlemen had a long conference last week in this city with W. O. Palmer, manager of the Cumberland Park Jockey Club of Nashville, and many think that Mr. Palmer will be selected to look after the interests of the track here. In case this reorganization is effected it may affect the official heads of Secretary Lockwood and Supt. Bellairs. An effort was made to see Col. Sellers in regard to the object of his little conference with the East St. Louis manager, but he could not be found.

East St. Louis. Hon. William S. Forman of Nashville, Congressman of the Eighteenth Illinois District, is in East St. Louis to-day to confer with gressman of the Eighteenth Illinois District, is in East St. Louis to-day to confer with Democratic leaders in regard to the appointment of a Postmaster to succeed Dr. Alex Fekete, the Republican incumbent. Mr. Forman came down from Belleville, where he settled the postmasterably yesterday. He expects to adjust matters here to-day or te-morrow. The Descriptions and Interpretations Of the Pictures . . .

Are by master hands, and many of the ablest art critics and well-known authors will contribute to this part of the work. The descriptions are never technical or prolix, but agreeable and spirited-done eloquently, in the language of the people. They are intended to interpret the sense and spirit of the pictures, in a lively and pleasing manner, and to lead the fancy of the beholder to a thorough appreciation and full enjoyment of the subjects. These Portfolios are the best that have been or can be offered.

ON CHANGE.

Wheat—The market was totally uninteresting during the greater part of the session, with slight changes in price, and, being so, was only lightly. There was no inducement to put out a line on the short side or take one in on the long side. The Police to Break Up the Pine Street "Fake" Show.

DECISION REACHED AFTER CONFER-RING WITH THE MAYOR'S OFFICE.

Experience of a Colored Youth Who Visited the "Entertainment" Monday Night-License for the Place Renewed by the Collector After Its Character Was Known.

The fake 10-cent show that has been runing the last month at 713 Pine street will be broken up. The Mayor's office and the police came to an understanding upon that point yesterday after their attention had again een called to the hollow shams and frauds of that exhibition by a representative of the POST-DISPATCH.

About ten days ago the place was exposed by the representative of the paper, who visted the house and let himself be played as a "sucker" like the rest. The show purports to be an exhibition of pictures and scene from the late fair. For this 10 cents was charged. The dupe was allowed to look at a few lithographs and similar scenes.

This did not answer the description of the vonderful Midway dancers that a man at the door was crying. For that 25 cents extra was The girl cashier played the role of dancer also, running inside when a crowd nad collected and kicking a few times. Sev eral cappers made it a special point to praise the wonderful show and hustle off all kickers.

The police were asked why they allowed this show to go on since it was a scheme to rob the unsophisticated under false pretenses. The answer was the show was run under a license obtained from the Collecter. The exhibition continued, and is running to-day.

TROUBLE AT THE SHOW. Monday evening William Laxton, a colored youth who paid 85 cents for the sake of seeing the performance, was hustled off into the alley in stead of the back room it is said. This was considered a great joke by the cappers, and when Laxton demanded that his money be refunded, one of them,

Herman Harmary, and the proprietor, HermaniHolwedel, slugged him, it is claimed They were arrested and held for trial o-morrow for disturbing the peace. That date was set because the negro falled to appear to prosecute them. A reporter for the Post-Disparch called upon the police yesterday to inquire why they had not reported to the Mayor that a fake show was being run under his permit. Capt. Boyd answered that he did not know that to be a fact.

He said he had sent two special officers to investigate the place. Evidently the officers vere known to the cappers, for they saw their 10 cents' worth of lithographs, etc., and left. No dance came off. Without proof of fraud he did not believe himself entitled to fraud he did not believe himself entitled to move against the place.

Patrolman Kavanaugh, who made the ararrest of Laxton's assailants, said that he had often observed the processof hustling the dupes of Holwedel into the alley by the back door after they had paid their quarter to see the dance. When asked why he did not make any arrests or report the matter to his superiors, he said most of the men considered it a good joke to be so duped or were ashamed to say anything about it. No doubt the cappers did consider it a huse joke to appear in that light when they could so laugh off the danger of real dupes. At any rate Kavanaugh made no arrest until ordered to do so on Laxton's complaint.

arrest until ordered to do so on Laxton's complaint.
At the Mayor's office prevailed the same ignorance of the character of the show being run under the license issued by Collector Zeigenhein with the mayor's permit, when the reporter called there.

THE LICENSE RENEWED. In the absence of Mayor Walbridge at Springs and the temporary absence of President of the Council Nagel, Secretary Saunders looked up the record concerning the ders looked up the record concerning the license. The petition, purporting to be signed by the majority of the Pine street property owners concerned, was not at the office, but it was learned that this had been submitted to the police for investing ation. The Mayor's permit to secure a license was issued Feb. 3, 1894.

The most peculiar thing about the matter was that the license was renewed March 3, after repeated complaints of the piace had reached the police. The new license reads for three months, yet the date of expiration is given as April 3.

Secretary Saunders was much disturbed about the attitude the Mayor had been placed in. He explained that he never investigated the character of the petitioner, but issued the permit as a duty imposed by law after the police investigated the signatures on the petition. He did not consider himself responsible. After a telephonic conversation with Secretary Lucas of the Chief of Police's office, the latter urged Capt. Boyd to stretch a point and recommend that the Mayor revoke his permit and have the license cancelled. Capt. Boyd said he could not do that but he would see that the show was broken up.

Mr. Cullen and the Aherns have come to an agreement over the payment of expenses. They are to bear the cost of digging the grave, etc., and the undertaker will charge the coffin and the labor of bis men to profit and loss. It is understood, however, that an attempt will be made to make the person responsible for the mistake pay part, it not the whole, of the costs incurred.

A rather amusing story is toid of the part Mr. Anderson, a saloonkeeper at Seventh and Biddle streets, took in the identification of the dead man as the John O'Brien in question. John had often drank over his bar and he was called in as an expert. When he saw the corpse be first placed his hand on its forehead "That is not John's forehead," he remarked with deliberate conviction. Then placing his shand over the syes he added "and those are not his eyes, but," he continued, bringing his first down on the table with considerable force, "that's John's nose, and I'll swear to it."

A Lucky Discovery and Its Results.

There is probably no happier woman today than Mrs. A. D. Seitz of Whitestone, L. I. She has lately attracted great attention, not only in her own town but for many miles around. As it is a subject which will most deeply interest everybody, she has been induced to make her experiences public. She writes the following letter to her fellow workers:

"I had suffered for three years and more with nervous prostration, nervous weakness of the heart and kidney disease. I was treated by different doctors, who told me that as I grew older my heart would grow weaker. I was giving up all hope of getting better and about made up my mind could never recover.

"I heard of the wonderful cures being performed by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and determined to try it. I am very thankful I did so, for it has tured me entirely. I was so bad I was afraid to leave the house.

"I would have bad spells at any time and would be very sick. I am well and strong now and can go away for days at a time. I feel like a different person, and shall never be without Dr. Greene's Nervura. I strongly advise all the sick and suffering to take it."

Thousands of people who are not exact-ly sick are yet out of order or ailing in some way. They do not feel well and strong, do not eat or sleep well, are neryous and have no ambition for work or pleasure. You need the great spring med-icine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It will make you well. The spring is the best time to treat for any disease. Everybody needs a spring medi-cine, and this is the best one known. It is the discovery of Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th st., New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted by all free of charge, personally or by letter
